4. Defendant Trident Seafoods Corporation (hereinafter "Trident") is a Washington corporation. Trident is an "employer" under the ADA and the Washington Law Against Discrimination ("WLAD"), RCW 49.60. Trident employs over 300 employees and is engaged in a business affecting commerce.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEEDINGS

5. On or about January 31, 2022, Plaintiff filed a timely Charge of Discrimination with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ("EEOC"). A copy of the charge is attached hereto as Exhibit 1 and is incorporated herein by reference.

6. On May 12, 2022, Plaintiff received the Notice of Right to Sue from the EEOC, which was dated April 21, 2022. A copy of the notice is attached to this Complaint as Exhibit 2 and is incorporated herein by reference.

7. This action has been filed with this Court within 90 days of the Plaintiff's receipt of the Notice of Right to Sue. Plaintiff has therefore fully complied with all administrative prerequisites under the ADA before filing this action.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Trident is a fishing and seafood company based in Seattle, Washington.

9. In July 2021, Plaintiff was hired by Trident as the Chief Engineer for a fishing vessel called the Dominator. The Chief Engineer directs and oversees the activities of the engine room regarding the mechanical operations, repair, and maintenance functions for the vessel. Plaintiff was scheduled to work approximately 17 fishing trips on the Dominator.

10. In 1994, Plaintiff lost three fingers on his right hand in an accident. His missing fingers, however, did not and do not interfere with his ability to do the job of Chief Engineer.

11. Plaintiff has approximately 25 years of experience working as Chief Engineer on fishing vessels like the Dominator.

12. Before being hired, Trident required Plaintiff to take a physical exam to ensure he was prepared for the physical duties of working on board its fishing vessels. He easily passed the exam. The exam paperwork noted that he was missing three fingers.

8 13. In late July 2021, Plaintiff was flown to Alaska to board the Dominator and start 9 work.

14. Before boarding, Plaintiff had a phone call with Craig Jenssen, the Captain of the Dominator. Jenssen and Plaintiff discussed the upcoming work. Plaintiff offered to help out as a deckhand if need be, even though that was not his job. Jenssen reassured Plaintiff that there were plenty of deckhands.

14 15. Shortly after this conversation, Plaintiff boarded the Dominator and they went 15 out to sea for their first fishing trip.

16. The first trip lasted approximately six days. On one of the final mornings, Jenssen called Plaintiff up to the wheelhouse where he said that no one had told him Plaintiff did not have all of his fingers. Jenssen said the condition made him really uncomfortable.

17. Plaintiff said he understood it could be uncomfortable to see missing fingers but this was noted on his physical exam, which had been shared with Jenssen. He told Jenssen he did not know he was supposed to mention it because it did not impact his ability to do his job.

18. Jenssen began pointing out tasks he thought Plaintiff would be unable to do, such as tying the zipper on the fishing net or changing a hydraulic hose on the crane. Although tying the zipper was a deckhand duty, Plaintiff told Jenssen he could do these tasks and asked him to let him prove it. Plaintiff offered to perform these duties on the spot. Jenssen, however,

19. Although he should not have had to, Plaintiff tried to convince Jenssen of his abilities. He said he had been doing this job for 25 years and asked Jenssen not to discount him because of his missing fingers. He asked Jenssen to let him go on the next trip and he would show him what he could do.

20. Jenssen refused to let Plaintiff prove to him that he could do any of the tasks he had brought up. He told Plaintiff he was firing him and that he would be taken back to the harbor that morning.

9 21. On July 23, 2021, Plaintiff emailed Vessel Staffing Assistant Rachel Severyns,
10 stating that "I was just called to the wheelhouse by Craig after 1 trip he has informed that due 11 to me messing 3 fingers he is firing me as Chief. I lost my fingers 25 years ago and have never 12 been fired from any of the 12 vessels I have sailed on as Chief." Plaintiff asked Severyns to 13 arrange a hotel room and flight for him. Severyns responded she was "sorry to hear that" and 14 would book his travel arrangements.

22. After disembarking, another crewmember told Plaintiff that Jenssen had said to him, "there's no way I can look at that hand across the galley table all season."

COUNT I – WLAD DISABILITY DISCRIMINATION

23. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference each and every averment of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

24. Plaintiff has a "disability," as the term is defined by the WLAD in that he has, or was perceived by Defendant as having, a medically cognizable or diagnosable physical impairment.

25. Plaintiff's loss of fingers is an impairment that constitutes an anatomical loss affecting one or more body systems, including the musculoskeletal system.

COMPLAINT -4-

At all relevant times, Plaintiff was able to perform the essential functions of his job.

3 27. Plaintiff's disability or perceived disability was a substantial factor in Defendant's
4 decision to terminate Plaintiff's employment.

5 28. As a direct and proximate cause of Defendant's actions, Plaintiff has suffered
6 damages, including lost wages and emotional distress.

COUNT II – ADA DISCRIMINATION

8 29. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference each and every averment of this 9 Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

30. Plaintiff is a "qualified individual with a disability" under the ADA.

Blaintiff's loss of fingers is a physical impairment that constitutes an anatomical loss affecting one or more body systems, including the musculoskeletal system.

32. Defendant terminated Plaintiff on the basis of his disability: (1) because it regarded him as having an actual or perceived physical impairment; and/or (2) because Plaintiff had a physical impairment that substantially limited one or more major life activities, including caring for himself.

17 33. At all relevant times, Plaintiff was able to perform the essential functions of his18 job.

19 34. Defendant discriminated against Plaintiff by terminating him on the basis of his 20 disability.

21 35. As a direct and proximate cause of Defendant's actions, Plaintiff has suffered
22 damages, including lost wages and emotional distress.

36. The actions and conduct set forth herein demonstrate malice or reckless indifference to the rights of Plaintiff by terminating his employment based on his disability, and
