Peter Pan Seafood promotes Shannon Grant to vice president of human resources

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — In an industry dominated by men, Peter Pan Seafood Company, LLC recently promoted Shannon Grant to vice president of human resources. According to 2022 data from International Organization for Women in the Seafood Industry, only 17% of board and executive seats in the seafood industry are held by women.

Grant has been with the company since March 2021 and has developed dynamic and robust human resources, recruiting, and payroll departments that are ready and capable of taking Peter Pan Seafood into the next chapter of the company's legacy.

"Shannon works hard to connect with employees at every level and ensure that every employee's voice is heard," said Peter Pan CEO Kevin Bixler.

In this role, Grant will continue to carry out one of the core values of Peter Pan: Hire and empower talented people.

"I'm excited about where Peter Pan is going and I'm looking forward to working closely with the rest of the leadership team to continue being strategic and building on the company's structure and the amazing team we have," Grant said.

Grant is currently visiting all Peter Pan locations to meet with staff and further develop plans to support and attract qualified employees.
